

EuroGeoSurveys 50th Anniversary Conference

Brussels, 03 November 2022

EuroGeoSurveys delivers 50+ years of Geoscience for Society

EuroGeoSurveys celebrated 50+ years of collaboration between the Geological Surveys of Europe as well as their continued collaboration towards the development of a Geological Service for Europe. The anniversary celebration, held in Brussels on 27th October 2022, brought together representatives of EU institutions, international organisations, industry associations, and international and European geological surveys to engage in geoscientific topics important to tackling current social and environmental challenges. Key talks and panel discussions explored the strength of international partnerships for a sustainable future, the interdisciplinary science delivered by EuroGeoSurveys, and the future vision of A Geological Service for Europe.

The geological surveys of Europe, represented by EuroGeoSurveys, work together to provide geoscientific information for the benefit of society. For more than 50 years, EuroGeoSurveys and its members have been delivering European geoscientific knowledge and projects to support environmental management, social wellbeing, international commitments and policy decision-making for the European Union.
